

In Situ

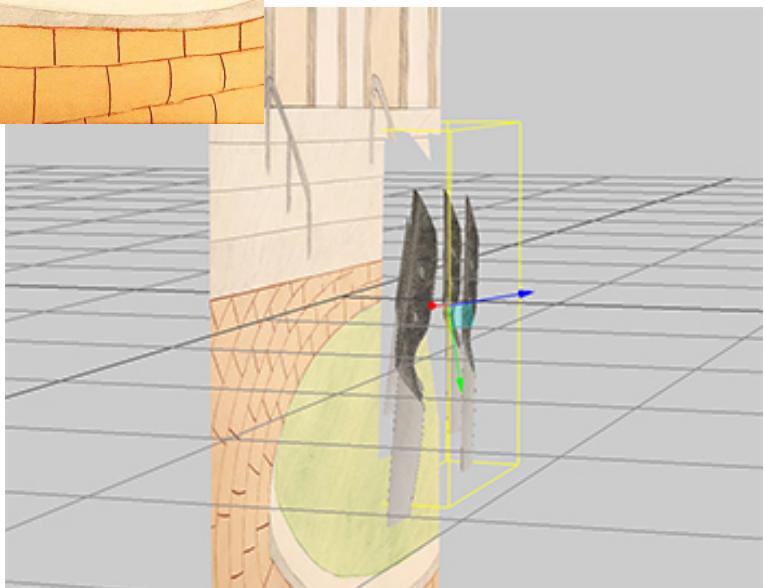

In Public

I chose to place the knife in its exact position when it is in use. This would be on top of the cutting board. I chose to place it more forward in the vector in Artivive rather directly flat as I wanted the knife to stand out in a 2D image.

I chose to place the knives in the grass as if the circular grass patch. This was to create the impression the grass is a knife block, thus finding everyday objects in public but at a larger scale. The different knives were places at different levels in Artivive in order to create dimensions to show they are at different positions within the grass patch.
